Pattern-based permutation statistics and code transforms
Abstract

Vincent VAJNOVSZKI

LE2I, Université de Bourgogne

BP 47870, 21078 Dijon CEDEX, France

`vvajnov@u-bourgogne.fr`

We show that several natural transforms of Lehmer code still give (vincular patterns involvement based) permutation codes. These transforms are inspired from data compression techniques. The obtained codes give alternative proofs of the Mahonity of some permutation statistics and provide explicit bijections between permutations having a given value for two different Mahonian statistics. Some algorithmic considerations are also presented.